

From Katie Lam 2018-2019 6A

A Charity Sale

It was Chinese New Year, I was helping UNICEF to do some voluntary work yesterday. I participated in the Charity Sale held in Times Square. When I was doing promotion of my stall, I saw one good thing in front of my stall.

A little boy was attracted by the teddy bears that I sold, but his parents refused to buy him one. He felt very sad about that. Another little girl used her red packet money to buy the teddy bear. Then the boy saw the girl buying it, he burst into tears.

Later, the little girl gave her teddy bear to the boy. We felt very surprised about what this little girl did. The boy's parents appreciated this girl very much.

At last, the boy's parents bought a teddy bear for her in return. I really admired this girl. We need to learn from this girl's act of love and this caring attitude.